December 5, 2011

In May 2011, Campus Council evaluated its own effectiveness through completion of an online survey. Campus Council reviewed and analyzed the survey data at its meeting on December 5, 2011.

Data Summary:

- A majority of members agree that Campus Council is effective in its roles of advising the Chancellor on budgetary matters, recommending college priorities to the Chancellor, and evaluating the planning process and making recommendations for improvements.
- A slight majority of members agree that Campus Council deals with crucial issues to the campus and that Campus Council provides an effective forum for dealing with those issues.
- A slight majority of members disagree that Council members insure that the flow of information upon which decisions are made includes the input and feedback from members of their constituencies.

In general, there was not an overwhelming majority agreeing or disagreeing about overall Campus Council effectiveness. This indicates that there is room for improvement in all areas. The following is a summary of the recommendations made by CC members for improvement.

1. Continue to post agendas on the intranet one week in advance of the meeting. Indicate on the agenda which issues to be discussed are considered important in terms of member feedback and participation in decision-making.
2. Publish the Campus Council minutes in the Campus Bulletin.
3. Send out a facstaff announcement prior to each Campus Council meeting with a link to the CC Intranet site.
4. Annually administer the CC Effectiveness survey at the last meeting of the year.
